

Pointed Paragraphs.

More men die of idleness than of hard work.

The closer we get to our good deeds the smaller they seem.

Labor is the only successful collector of the living the world owes to man.

When a man gets so deeply in love with himself that he begins to celebrate his greatness he has reached the turn in the lane.

If a girl refuses an offer of marriage and becomes a spinster, she may regret it; and if she marries she may regret it—so what can the poor girl do?

Senator Joe Blackburn appeared in main street, Versailles, the other day in a very nobby and stylish suit of some-spun grey jeans. "The cloth of this suit," said the Senator, "was spun and woven by hand in the mountains of North Carolina, and was a present to me from Senator Marion Butler, of that State, who had enough of it woven to make each of us a suit. I used to say in Washington that the only serviceable clothes were the jeans he wore when a boy, which had plenty of 'Spanish needles' and burrs woven in the wool."—Woodford Sun.

It takes but a minute to overcome tickling in the throat and to stop a cough by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. This remedy quickly cures all forms of throat and lung troubles. Harmless and pleasant to take. It prevents consumption. A famous specific for grippe and its after effects.

The farmer's wife who raises chickens, knows that they must have food enough first to satisfy bare hunger, then enough more than that to make flesh and fat before they will begin to lay. In plain words she has got to put into the hen in the form of food what you get out of it in the shape of eggs. An ill nourished hen lays no eggs. The difference between the farmer's wife and her chickens is that she fancies she can take out of herself in daily cares and toils what she does not put back in the form of nourishment for nerve and body. But she can't. Sooner or later the woman who tries to break down are, among others, headache, weak stomach, flatulence, pain in side or back, difficult breathing, palpitation of the heart. These are only some of the indications of a derangement of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. The one sure remedy for this condition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood and nourishes and invigorates the nerves.

Mrs. Martha E. Barham, of Newville, Prince George Co., Va., writes: "I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in June, 1897, also his 'Favorite Prescription,' and I cannot express the benefit I have received from these medicines. I was suffering with what the doctors called chronic indigestion, torpid liver and vertigo. The doctor did not do me any good. My symptoms were giddiness in head, pains in chest and an uneasy feeling all over. I also suffered with female weakness. I was all run-down and could not do any work at all without suffering from nervous attacks, so I wrote to you for advice. You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' When I commenced to use the medicines I weighed only 115 pounds, now I weigh 140 pounds. I thank God and Dr. J. C. V. for his 'Golden Medical Discovery'."

THE NEW YORK WORLD,

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Almost A Daily—At the Price of a Weekly.

The most widely circulated "weekly" newspaper in America is the Thrice-a-Week edition of the New York World, and with the Presidential campaign now at hand you can not do without it. Here are some of the reasons why it is the leader in dollar a year journalism.

It is issued every other day, and is to all purposes a daily.

Every week each subscriber receives 18 pages and often during the "busy" season 24 pages each week.

The price is only $1.00 per year. It is virtually a daily at the price of a weekly.

Its news covers every known part of the world. No weekly newspaper could stand alone and furnish such service.

The Thrice-a-Week World has at its disposal all of the resources of the greatest newspaper in existence—the wonder of modern journalism—"America's Greatest Newspaper," as it has been justly termed—The New York World.

Its political news is absolutely impartial. This fact will be of especial value in the Presidential campaign coming on.

The best of current fiction is found in its columns.

These are only some of the reasons; there are others. Read it and see them all.

We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE ADVOCATE together one year for $1.60.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.

THAT OPAL!

Stone That Carried with it the Traditional Ill-Luck.

A man made a wager and lost it. "No wonder," said a bystander. "You're wearing an opal. You never will have any luck."

This set the man to thinking. Four days later he slipped in getting off a tram-car and sprained his ankle. This decided him. He gave the pin to a friend who was on the stock exchange, and who had no superstitious beliefs. Nevertheless, when the skeptic lost over $2,000 he began to worry. He didn't care much for the pin, anyway, and so one day, when a young man in his office admired the fire in the stone, he said: "Take it along if you like it."

The young man overwhelmed him with thanks. Then he waited with guilty knowledge to see what would happen to the young man. He did not have to wait long. The very next week the employe was taken ill, and he missed four days at the office. The stock exchange man was troubled in conscience, so he told his young friend about the opal pin and the superstition attached to it, and the employe, after deliberation, decided that he would give the pin to his girl.

The opal did very rapid and effective work after it became the property of the young woman. On the second day after she began to wear it she ignited a curtain in attempting to light the gas. The curtain was destroyed, and the young woman burned both her hands in attempting to extinguish the blaze.

"An opal is always unlucky," she thought. "I'll not wear the dreadful thing a day longer." And she did not.

She gave it to her brother, who scoffed at the suggestion that a sparkling, glassy little stone could wield any influence, good or bad. Nevertheless, when he started for London and the train ran off the line, and he was nearly killed, he became converted.

"I'll not give it to anybody else to be a Jonah," said he. "I'll sell it to a jeweler."

So he went to the jeweler and said: "What'll you give me for this opal?"

The jeweler said: "That isn't an opal; it's a cat's-eye!"—London Tit-Bits.

A ROSARY OF WILD FLOWERS.

Blossoms for Every Month in the Year in Bleak New England.

How many know that even in bleak New England there is no month without its blossom children, no season utterly destitute of flowers?

In January the star chickweed, and, in seasons of thaw, the swamp cabbage, defy the elements; while February calls forth the first willow catkins beside the brooklet. March is the month of snowdrops and iris, but April's sunlight shines over hepatica and sweet arbutus.

May has an unnumbered following; violets and anemones carpet the sheltered glades, while overhead is the pink glory of the thorn apple. June, the month of eglantine and hawthorn, brings as well the buttercup, dear to childhood's heart, and yellow primroses, gleaming like floral stars amid nocturnal shadows. In July the creamy masses of elder bloom fringe every country road and the pink-purple spikes of the willow herb demand our praise; but as August, the delight of the orchid family, approaches, pink lady's slippers and moccasin flowers bloom everywhere, while the Indian pipe, that mysterious flower of alabaster, graces the forest aisles.

September is especially rich in specimens of the daisy clan, to which belong our garden dahlias and marigolds, pansy and thoroughwort, endive, saffry, black-eyed Susans, and even the bold, vigorous defiant thistle, whose purple head lures every passing bee and butterfly to a right royal feast.

One hears the fairy artillery of the witch hazel in October, and it is then that the milkweed shakes out its snowy flakes.

November gives the golden-rod and everlasting, while December's representatives are chickweed, witch hazel and a few late violets.—Good Housekeeping.

The Army Automobile.

The Italian army is now studying the advisability of introducing the automobile. It is considered that it could be used both for transporting ammunition from the rear to the firing line and for carrying the wounded to the nearest hospital. With comparatively few roads a higher velocity can be maintained with a motor carriage than with a horse.
